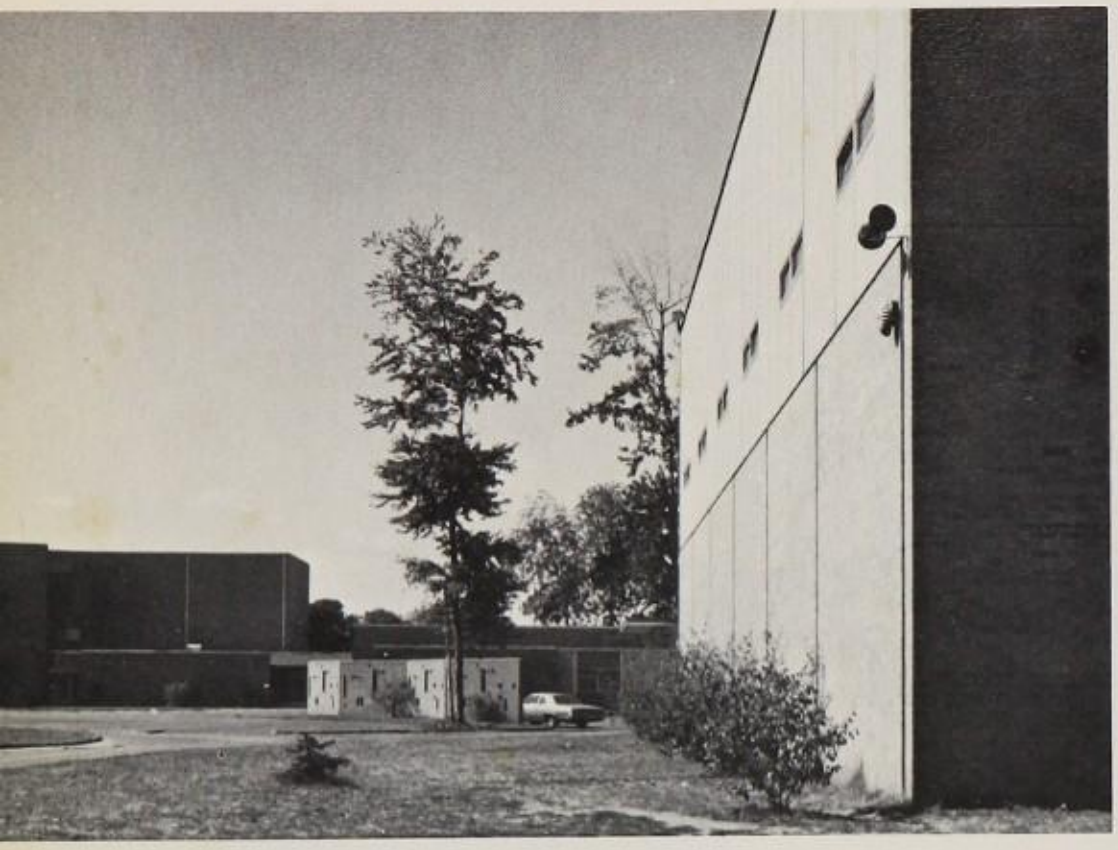
VOLUME IX



A high school —
More than a place to learn,
A place to live . . .
The years for growing —
For coming to know oneself,
For understanding . . .
A time —
When emotions seem to explode
from within,
When laughter can so easily change to tears . . .
The time —
For participating,
For anticipating,
For dreaming an impossible dream . . .
When one stands on the threshold
Of a new and challenging world,
He realizes just how much
Of a person he has become,
And how much his high school years
Have meant to him
As a student
And as an adult.

DEDICATION .....

Education focuses
the best of yesterday
for the best of tomorrows;
Education creates
with questions: how,
why not, if, when ???
Education provides for growth of
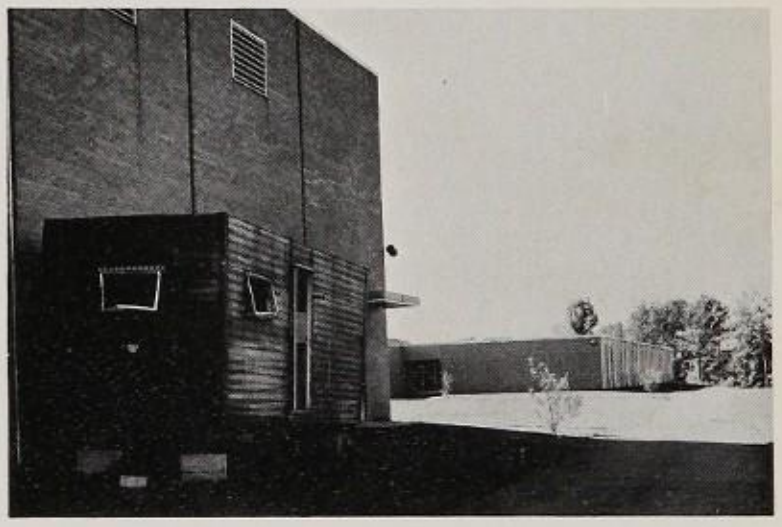
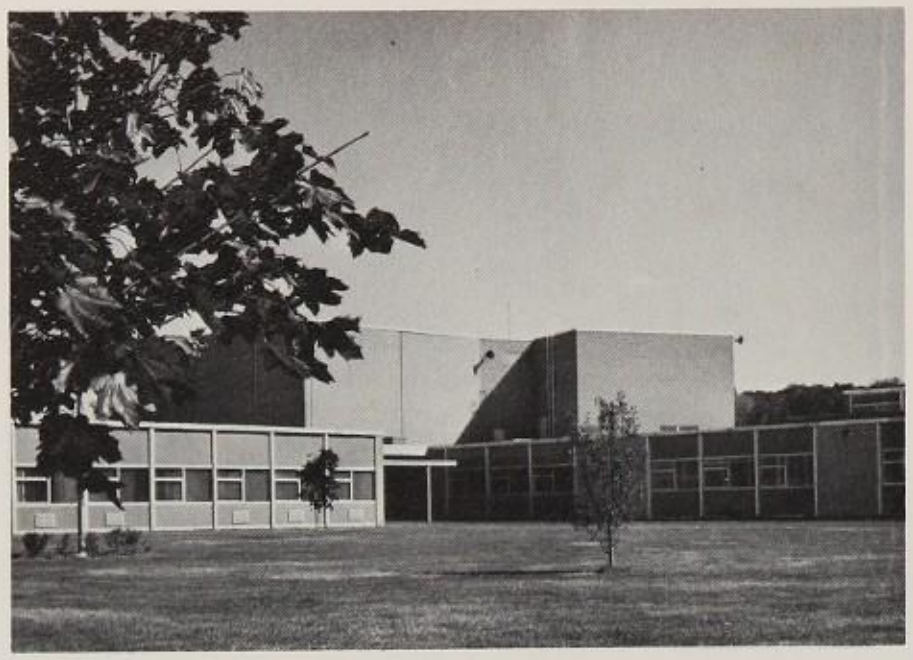
mind, body, spirit.
Those who dare, who plan,
who guide, who build,
They serve our youth,
our communities, our nation.
Honor them.

..... TO DR. RAYMOND M. TRAVIS

This issue of The Milestone is dedicated with pride, with appreciation, and with sincere thanks to Dr. Raymond M. Travis, who has served the West Essex Regional School District since its founding. He has been Superintendent of Schools during our high school years, and has devoted his efforts to developing West Essex as a great school. We are grateful that he has been interested in us, in our activities, in our needs, and in our success.



Dr. Travis' first office at WEHS



Hail, Alma Mater,
the school from which we commence Still stands proudly in the sunlight bidding silent farewell.
Hail, West Essex High School;
its doors lead each of us
To brighter and wider paths of promising years to come.
Hail, Alma Mater;
as graduates, we stand
Supported by your name, knowing the years of youth and wonderment and hope.

No man can divide;
What Eternity has willed,
No man can alter.

Essex Fells

The quiet streets wind and turn,
across the hills and down again,
lined by maples, stone walls,
rail fences, hedges of roses.
Essex Fells is homes,
each more appealing than the next,
The Tudor style of public buildings,
The green of the golf course in spring,
The warmth of sunshine on playgrounds in summer,
The multi-colored leaves of trees in autumn,
The pond of crystal ice in winter.
The memory of railroad tracks and the ancient station;
The promise of the days to be.

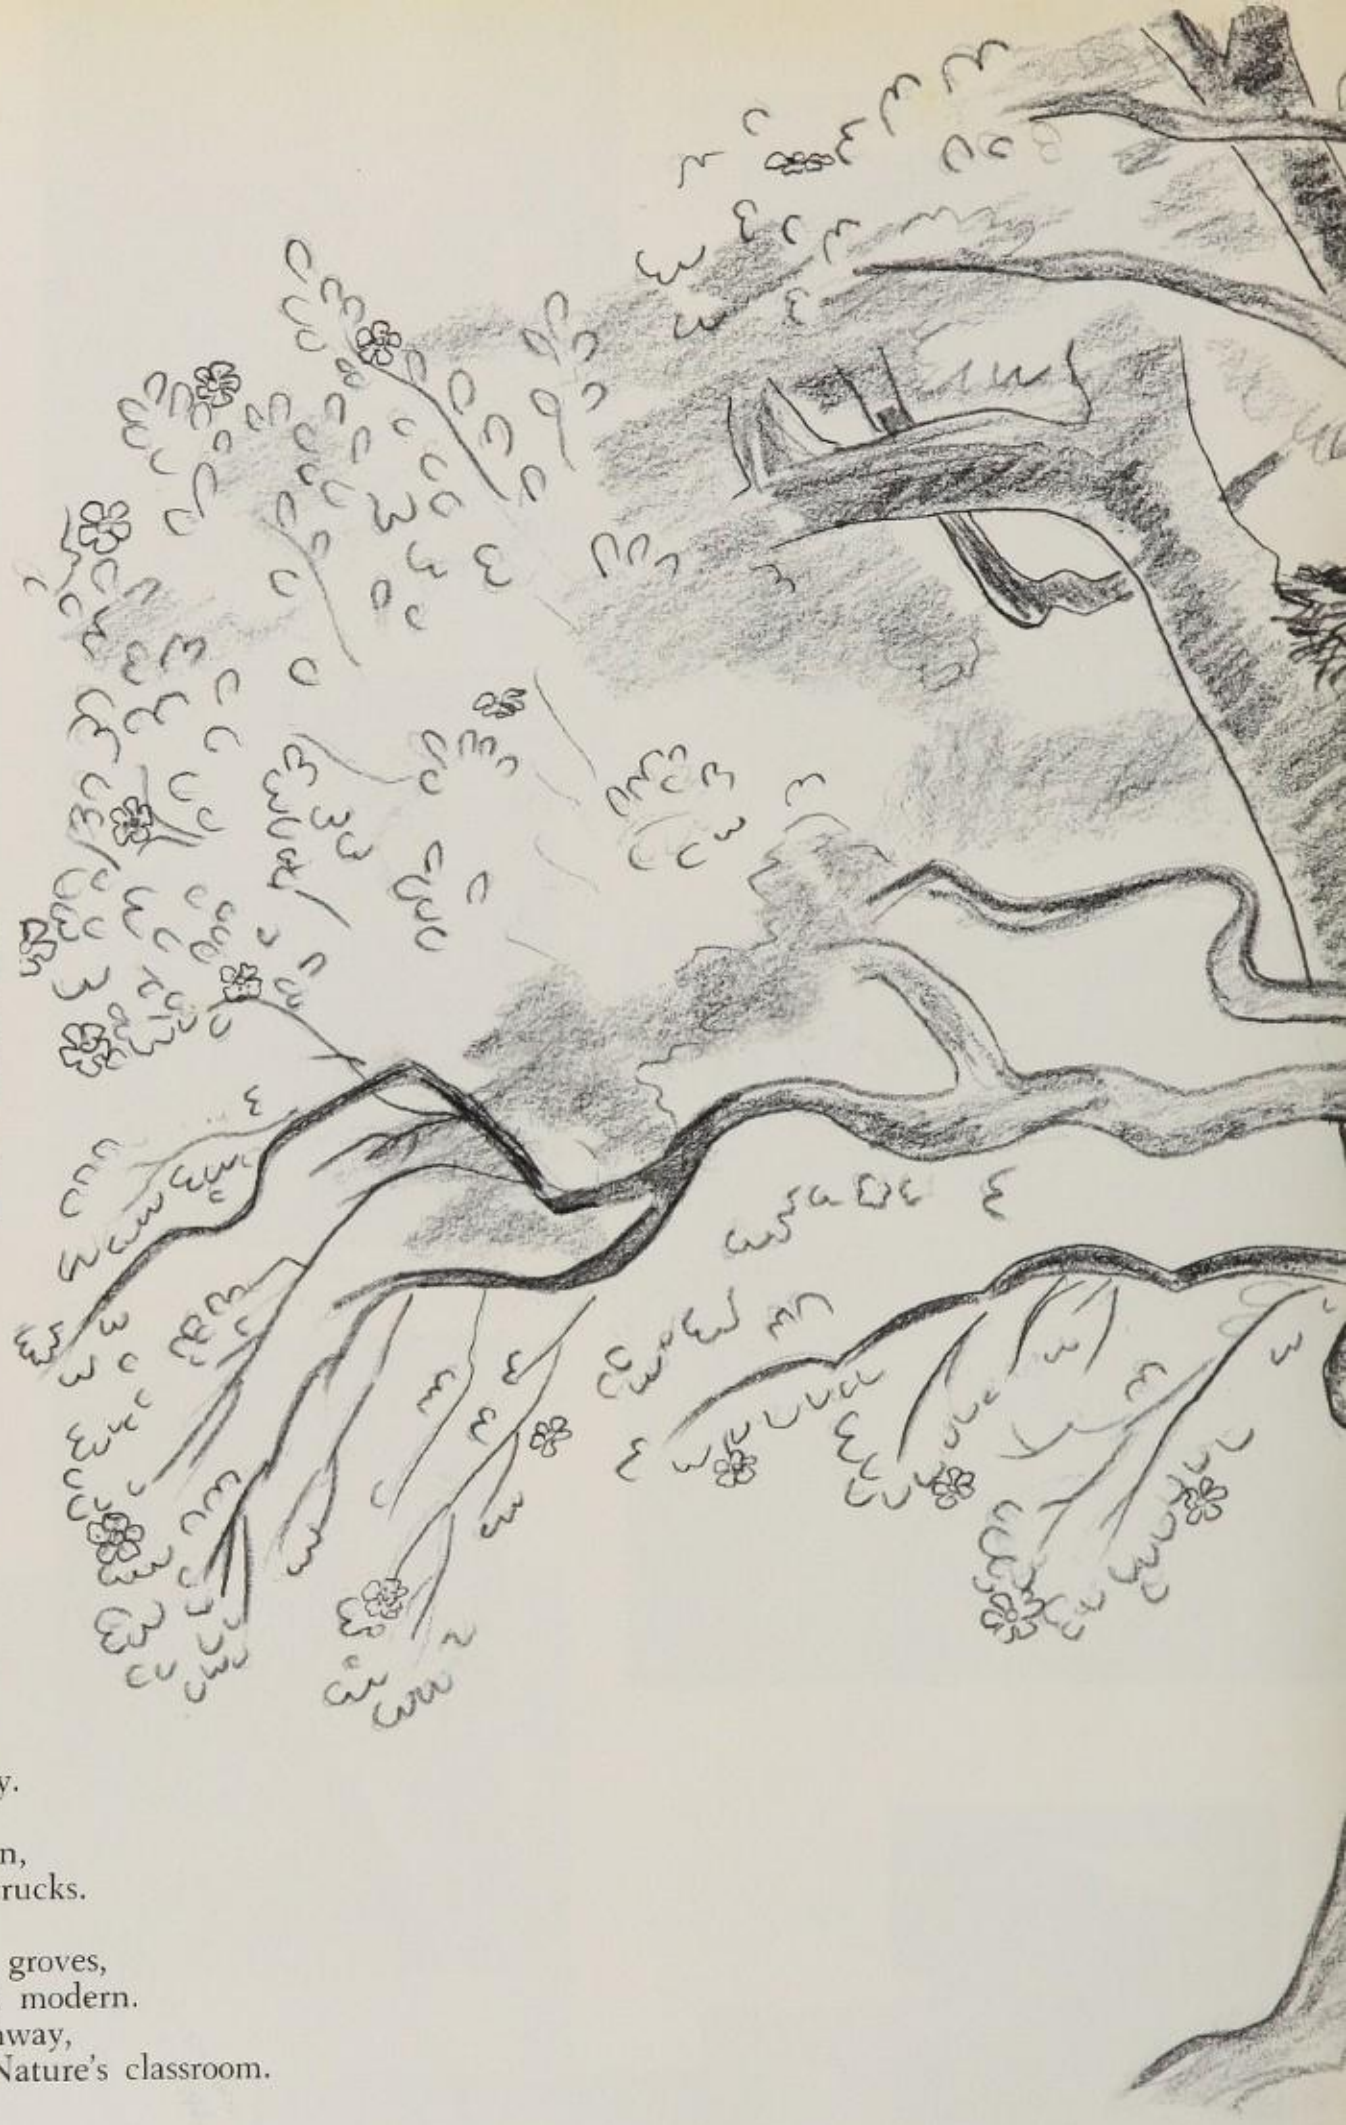
FAIRFIELD



Like a scene of America itself:
The old blending with the new –
The River, home of Indians,
Airport tower, wings to the sky.
The rural with the industrial –
Field with crops in summer sun,
Modern factories with trailer trucks.
The scenes of calm and of rush –
Lanes with brambles, coppice, groves,
Ruthless Route 80, speed-track modern.
Fairfield is home, and the church, the highway,
The famous meadow preserved as Nature's classroom.

Roseland

Roseland makes a good home town;
where Eagle Rock meets Harrison
there are churches, a school,
a memorial, a stately borough hall;
where Livingston sweeps past
old farms, there are now new highways;
where Passaic passes woodlots,
there we see a new school and new-built homes.
Roseland, an old settlement, now is becoming Roseland, a new town.
A warmth of friendly neighbors,
A crest of green fields,
A time of growth and change,
A good home town.

The sun moves daily
across the eternal sky
and time, like the sun
passes before our eyes;
If we look down, we see
the shadows,
But if we look up,
there is radiance,
clouds,
and flights of swallows.
